SWU II--World War S

Chapter 1 by Jayde Avalon

The party was a week ago. The story warriors all found themselves now in a fallout shelter underneath Mexico, awaiting further command from their leader, Joakim.

"You girls alright over there?" Phantim called from across the room, where he sat with the men.

Strawberry promptly wiped her eyes and took a deep breath, but couldn't speak. As Phantim approached, Jayde scooted closer and spoke for Strawberry.

"She's still kind of in shock," Jayde whispered, tucking flyaway layers of hair into her black beanie. "She'll be alright."

"What about you?" Tim asked, his worry either real or mocking--it was hard to tell in the dark.

"You're not going to have a breakdown or anything?"

Kipp ADT smirked, her pearlescent teeth almost glowing in the dimness. "Dude, this chick took down Intellikat single-handedly. I think she's got this."

Jayde rolled her eyes and looked down with an embarrassed little smile. "Yeah, I'm fine," she said, though she was far from it.

Intellikat had been one of the most popular characters in the world, a symbol of hope and freedom during the early days of the war. She had been born in America, but had moved to England to escape the fighting. She had become a legend, known for her amazing strength and agility. She had fought alongside the British forces, helping them to win many battles. She had also helped to raise money for the war effort, through various fundraising events. She had become a true hero, and was loved by millions of people around the world.

Chapter 2 by Strawberry

"Hah- yeah, great going on that." Phantim replied with a hint of sarcasm- once again, it was difficult to tell in the dark.

"I- hic- thought it was- hic-marvelously written though." Strawberry offered through her sputters of nervous tears.

"Well at least someone has good taste!" Jayde exclaimed with a sly grin as she stood up in an attempt to square up to Tim.

Both of them ended up laughing it off which eased some of the nervous tension in the bunker.

Just as everyone began to ease into more their comfortable and usual badinage- there came a series of signals emitted from the CB system that rested on a small table in the shelter. When the message began to be communicated, a crackled rendition of Joakim's voice could be heard;

"Prepare yourselves- Germany has declared full out war-

This was followed by another long series of crackling and static until Joakim seemed to return to his handheld.

"And it has been confirmed that Russia is willing to back them up. But there is a chance at a peace treaty by specific means of-" More crackling ensued for a moment, leaving everyone on edge, "A verbal apology from Jayde Avalon as well as a new story to replace the one that has angered them. This is, of course- if Jayde is willing. Until then, stay safe and be wise Story Warriors!" With that, Joakim's message was concluded.

Although there were a sparse amount of LED lights that flickered throughout the space, Jayde swore that she could see everyone of them reflected in the eyes of everyone who watched her, as everyone watched her in nervous apprehension.

"This one is all up to you Jayde. You could choose to surrender or you could choose to fight." This rather finalized statement had come from the far side of the bunker, and it was a rather unfamiliar voice to most people. The sound of people shuffling around could be heard as they tried to turn towards the voice in the darkness. Finally, someone managed to flip on a flashlight to reveal the voice behind the words.
